Greater Value

- Not only do customers receive the added value of our innovative management tools and services but we can, at times, supply a subscription collection at a lower cost or at better terms than customers can procure on their own.
- The services we offer can greatly reduce our customers' internal administrative costs; this is even more the case post-merger thanks to the comprehensive integration of EBSCO's many access and management tools.

More Innovative Tools

We leverage expertise across our product lines to keep you at the leading edge as the information industry advances, supplying you with smarter tools and content.

Recent enhancements to EBSCO's lineup of software tools and services:

EBSCONET Analytics, for more informed collection development decisions.

The industry's only analysis tool that puts key decision-making data directly in the application where institutions manage their subscription collections.

When used in conjunction with our Usage Consolidation service, customers get critical usage data right in their orders lists and in easy-to-read dashboards...

1. Displays in the result list Publication Finder placard
2. Contributes to the “Full Text” limiters
3. Triggers the display of Custom Links and Link Resolvers (only on records you have full text for)

The screenshot displays the EDS interface. At the top, there's a red navigation bar with 'Page: 1 2 3 4 5' and 'Relevance' sorting. Below, a search bar shows 'Journal of Chemical Physics' with a 'Search within Publication' dropdown. A 'Refine your results' overlay is active, showing three filter options: 'Full Text' (checked), 'Peer Reviewed', and 'Available in Library Collection'. The main result area shows a title 'Transient rifting north of the Galapagos triple junction' by Mitchell, Garrett A. in 'Earth and Planetary Science Letters', July 15, 2011. The abstract describes seafloor bathymetry and short-lived rifts. Subjects include solid-earth geophysics, bathymetry, Cocos Plate, East Pacific, triple junction, Nazca Ridge, ocean floors, Pacific Ocean, plate tectonics, rift zones, transient phenomena, and triple junctions. The database is GeoRef. At the bottom, there's an 'Add to folder' button and a 'Find It UGA' button.
